

The Hunger Games: Book vs. Movie Comparison

Amr Salem
Period 5

Similarities

Core Plot: The plot of Katniss Everdeen who volunteers in order to take her sister's place in the Hunger Games is echoed in the both the film and novel.

Key Characters: Most of the characters which are major in the story are retained as they are including Katniss, Peeta, Gale and President Snow. The displayed motives and the established connections are also alike.

Similarities continued

Themes: In the movie and the book there are evident themes such as a survival, fight against oppress and elements related to authority.

Message: As it has been noted, the main and the only two notions of the original works are rebellion against authority and for liberation.

Social Commentary: Both mediums offer social commentary on issues like class inequality, government control, and the dehumanizing effects of violence.

Differences

Katniss Everdeen:

Film: In the film, it seems that Katniss is more concerned with relationships with Peeta and Gale.

Novel: Thus the novel deprives her of the internal life and leaves her the embodiment of her passion and a tame representative of rebellion.

Supporting Characters: While the film may focus the characters' roles and plot with relation to a District or the Games, the novel has more detailed Descriptions of characters such as Rue, Cinna, Haymitch and Capitol citizen.

Differences 2

Pacing and Tone

Pacing:

Film: Said film has a higher tempo that means some events and characters' development have to be briefly presented.

Novel: The novel provides for building-up the action more slowly, and revealing the history and main intents of the characters.

Tone:

Film: The film sometimes shifts back to a more positive and romanticise theme observe in the later sequels.

Novel: For a more part of the novel has a darker and more moral approach, which emphasizes the background of the dystopian society.