Night essay

Imagine a scenario where you were being worked and starved to death, well that's what Elie Wiesel went through when he was younger. Elie Wiesel Survived a brutal time in the Concentration camps that he worked in, with the losses of many friends and family. Elie went through many problems like his gold tooth, or his swollen foot, and also a brutal, long run to another concentration camp.

When Elie Got to the concentration camp he had to go visit the dentist. He went to visit the dentist because the dentist wanted his gold crown (tooth). Elie did not want to give up his gold crown so he faked being sick. So the dentist told him to come back when he got better. When he went back he used the same excuses. But soon after the dentist got arrested. Readers can see this when it says "A few days after this visit of mine, they close the dentist's surgery, And he was thrown into prison. He was going to be hanged. It was alleged that he had been running a private traffic of his own and prisoners' gold teeth (Wiesel 47)."

Later in the book Elie's foot started to swell up. Readers see this when it says "toward the middle of January, my right foot began to swell because of the cold. I was unable to put it on the ground. I went to have an examination. The doctor, a great Jewish doctor, a prisoner like ourselves, was quite definite: I must have an operation if we waited for the toes and perhaps the whole leg would have to be amputated.(Wiesel 70)”Ellie kinda liked The hospital Like when it said “ The hospital was not bad at all. We are giving good bread and thicker soup no more bell. No more roll calls. No more work. Now and then I was able to send a bit of bread to my father.(Wiesel 71)” . But Elie’s father told him that he needs to rejoice because there was a selection the next day. Soon Elie got an operation Done on his leg and he survived. Elie had to rest after the Operation but Two days after he found out that they had to leave the camp because it was “ Certain to be mined” So Elie and his father had to choose to stay or leave.They chose to leave so Elie had to ignore the foot.

When the camp got “mined” and Elie and his father decided to leave with the other prisoners,they had to run 42 miles to another camp. They had no break the whole time. They were in the cold ,weak, tired, and hungry.But they never stopped running even though they wanted to. They even watched their friend die from getting trampled on. Elie even started thinking about his own death but the thought of his father alone stopped him. Readers can see this when it says “My father’s presence was the only thing that stopped me... he was running at my side, out of breath,at the end of his strength,at his wit’s end. I had n right to let myself die.What would he do without me?I was his only support.(Wiesel 78)”.

Elie went through a number of problems including his gold tooth, his hurt foot, and also the really long run to another concentration camp.Elle Wiesel shaped the world's understanding of the holocaust he impacted a lot of peoples lives. Ellie was a very inspirational author for readers of all ages. He teaches Everyone about the holocaust and what the Jews went through.In conclusion night is a great book.
